THE assassination of President Carnot. be the leading topic with all civilized nations. They stand appalled at the horrible crime, which in the last 30 years has when Presidents Lincoln and Garfield were cruelly slain. Their assinations were the work of men, however, who acted on their own accounts. The killing of Carnot was the result of a conspiracy of those bloody and cowardly ene his crime, yet he risked it with the ut- ter. most indifference. There is only one way to stop them-kill every man suspected of holding anarchistic views.

THE Illinois democrats in convention assembled fought over a full endorsefinally adopted this, leaving the inference | dues. that it hasn't done all it might: "We indorse the action of President Cleveland and the public services of all democrats in executive and legislative stations, in all things that they have done to give force to the principles of the party as laid down by the Chicago convention of 1892." The convention nominated Franklin McVeagh for U.S. Senator, thus again indorsing the policy of electing such officers by popular vote. The Pennsylvania democrats nominated Editor W. M. THE gold reserve in the treasury having gone below any former low watermark, some apprehensions have been felt for the public credit. President Cleveland says, however, that there is no cause for alarm. The treasury is in much better condition than when bonds were sold to replenish the gold reserve. All obligations will be met as they fall due and when Mr. Cleveland says the public credit will be maintained at all hazards, absolute confidence may be resumed.

Are the low prices which continually prevail with us. We are a wakening the people for miles around to the knowledge that we are selling goods at least 15 per cent, cheaper than our neighboring competitors. We have made a convincing argument to this effect by selling shoes for $1 that elsewhere cost $1.25, suits of clothes for $3 that elsewhere cost $5.$ This an argument which is bound to be convincing to those who investigate.

THE AGE OF WOMEN.

COMPARISON OF THE SEX IN ENGLISH SPEAKING COUNTRIES.

Miss C. H. Spence, the Well Known Australian Writer and Lecturer, Relates a Few Facts and Expresses Sundry Opinions-Arguments For Woman Suffrage.

There are English speaking women as well as men domiciled in all the continents and in almost all the islands of the world. "Mother of Nations" is Britain's proudest title, and the new nations she has planted, whether separated or still under the wing of the empire, hold from her in their history, traditions, language and literature. Where 11 51 pm Englishmen and Americans go they take their wives and families with them and endeavor to make a home. English speaking women in the old country, in America, in Canada, in India, in South Africa and in Australasia are more like to each other than they Going North trains pass Junction City as follows: Blue-Grass Vestibule starts 6 a. m. Distance and climate cannot separate as much as language and history ally, and the nation making race brings with it an environment which subdues all who come within the influence of its language.

Contrast the manner in which the United States within a generation Americanizes her young foreigners in her public schools with the failure of Canada to assimilate her French subjects, who were allowed to keep their own language. The French Canadians are more French than the French thentselves, more Catholic than modern Italians and Spaniards and perhaps more conservative than any people in the world, though close to the progressive province of On-

Our mother tongue is therefore the mighty chain that binds us in union. I have indeed been sometimes called a foreigner in an official sense, not being an American citizen, but a British subject, whose home is in Australia. Where people read the same books they are apt to think similar thoughts and to have kindred aims. And I can never meet with more brotherly and sisterly fellow workers than have clasped hands with me in America. Our history down to a certain point is the same, and though recent developments vary in various quarters of the clobe we are all marching on, and every step in the right direction taken by any of us aids true progress for all.

Yet there are distinctions between me is the manner in which American women have successfully invaded every field formerly held as a masculine preserve and have become a great industrial army not only of hand workers and housekeepers, but of head workers in professions and in every branch of educational and clerical work.

It was not till 1796 that the Boston schools were open to girls as pupils. It was only in 1830 that Massachusetts employed women to teach in the schools. And now seven-eighths of the teachers in the pub"c schools are women and perhaps more in the Sunday schools. Coeducation in schools and in university, and where the latter cannot be obtained universities for girls open to them in all states of the Union, and the higher education as far as it can be had eagerly seized by the sex, which was excluded from the schools altogether a LIVERY, FEED AND TRAINING STABLE, century ago, have made a great change in the relations of the sexes to each other. Wo len no longer look on marriage as the great business of life in America. The exploded idea lingers in novels and novelettes, but in real life it is felt that financial independence and the capacity for earning a livelihood sethe capacity for earning a livelihood secure women from having to marry for a home. Real love makes the self supa home. Real love makes the self supporting woman give up her independence, but the dependent woman was tempted to accept any man who seemed | Will guarantee first class work and satisfactory willing and able to provide for her.

There is a quietness and simplicity in the dress of the educated working woman in America which I am told has gradually come into favor. At first girls would go to the office in cheap silks and startling hats, but now they have learned both what is serviceable and what is suitable. The earnings of these American women are higher compared with those of men than they are in England or in Australia. I think they are general-Carlisle, Maysville, Cynthiana, ly better fed and clothed than women in the same work with us in Australia, and they are immensely more numerous. They come out of families in better circumstances. I think the democratic air of America fosters the idea that it is Leave Frankfort A honorable to earn the bread we eat, and that a supernumerary idle daughter is as great an encumbrance as an idle son. If women are thus strong in the schools, in the professions and in the offices of America, what shall we say of them in the churches? Mark Twain, in his own humorous way returning thanks for the toast of the ladies, said that "without women men would be scarce," and without women we may truly say that the churches would be nearly empty. Not only by their bodily presence and their regular attendance do of four bottles of S.S.S. after having had much other treatreduced to quite a low condition of health, as it entirely. I heard of a city where there were 14 organizations of women, charitable, religious and literary, and only one organization of men, and that was > a baseball club. It used to be said that women could not organize, for they were full of petty jealousy and spite, but that was when p. jealousy and spite, but that was when the men wrote the books and made the proverbs. Nowadays, when the women write more books and read more books than the men, and when they, too, can than the men, and when they, too, can crystallize into a pungent phrase wisdom and satire, they can show the other side of the shield. It flattered masculine vanity to suppose that women were so eager for their admiration that they quarreled with each other about it. French novels written almost exclusively by men still perpetuate the idea that woman seeks power by influence, generally sinister, over the senses and working on the self love of man. English and American novels are pleasanter reading, and the more independent women become the less ros will find of this cutthroat competition for ascendancy over the stronger sex.

It seems a paradox that America, where women are a greater social force than anywhere under heaven, should give less political power to women than she has in other English speaking coun-

We have had the municipal vote for women taxpayers and householders in my province of South Australia since 1864, several years before it was given in England itself. American women are still struggling for the municipal vote and for the school vote, and this is all the more remarkable because the battle is to be fought state by state, and not like the presidential or the congressional vote, to be carried all over the Union

Wyoming was exceptional, for it had woman suffrage before it was created into a state, but it is remarkable that New Zealand, an English colony, and Colorado, an American state, conferred full suffrage on their women by the votes of men within a very few weeks of each other. In both Colorado and New Zealand the women seek moral reform. the making of better laws and more faithful enforcement of such laws as already exist.

The world is watching intently the course of legislation and of administration in communities where equal rights for both sexes are recognized.

According to the apparent results, will the example be copied or avoided. C. H. SPENCE.
